Introduction

The original edition of the Stump family history is dated 1891, though events as late as 1897 were described. This may be explained by the statement of L. Arthur Stump, the original publisher, on his family chart (see Frontispiece) that he had it printed sometime after the original authors had completed their work. The library catalog at the Maryland Historical Society gives the date of publication as 1911, though that may be the date of acquisition.

This revision makes no change in the original work, which has been photo-offset, except to bring down to 1955 the history of the lines of Captain Reuben Stump and his wife Margaret Wilson Stump and Alexander Hamilton Stump. Their position in the family picture may be ascertained by a reference to the chart.

The organization of the original work is a little hard to follow. It gives all descendants of an older child before taking up a younger. To make the book uniform the system has been retained. To make it easier to follow, however, cross references have been added in the inside margin. Thus:

(53) A person's parents (and their other children)
57 A person's own children (if any)

While other branches of the family were not brought down to date because of too little time and the mass of material that would have been needed, cooperation will be offered if anyone wishes to undertake the task. Most future effort, however, will be to delve back into the history of the original John Stump and his ancestors.

REUBEN STUMP. Though more than twenty years have passed since the death of Mr. Stump, he is not forgotten by his associates, for his memory is green in their hearts as it is in those of his widow and children. The latter whose lives were spent in Green Spring Valley, which is one of the finest in the state. Here he [illegible] on a valuable estate [illegible] the name of Lyssna. The son of Samuel Stump, who was for many years a merchant in Baltimore, Reuben Stump was born in that city February 20, 1816. However, as he reached the prime of life, he began to look forward to a more settled existence and decided to abandon his seafaring life. He came to Baltimore County and purchased the farm in the third district where his widow now resides. Politically he was a firm Democrat, but never sought office or honors from his party. With his wife he held membership in the Episcopal Church. His death, which occurred in 1875, was mourned by the people of this locality, all of whom felt that they had lost a true friend, an honest and obliging neighbor and public spirited citizen.

In 1854 occurred the marriage of Reuben Stump to Margaret Wilson, who was born in Harford County, Md., in 1832, the daughter of Christopher and Hettie (Smith) Wilson, the former a farmer and lifelong resident of Harford County. She was one of eight children, of whom three besides herself survive, namely: Christopher, a farmer in Harford County, who also acts for his neighbors in the settlement of estates; Edward, a farmer residing in Prince William County, Va.; and Mary, who married David Wilson, owner of the Alfred flour mills in Harford County. The Wilson family, it may be stated, originally came from England.

Seven children comprised the family of Mr. and Mrs. Stump. William S., the eldest son, settled in what was then a part of the Indian Territory, and is engaged in the mercantile business in Woodward, Okla. Ellen, the eldest daughter, married Dr. Malin Gilkes, a prominent surgeon of Boston, New England, and they have a daughter and [illegible]. Norman is the only one of the family who remained at the old homestead this he did, believing it his duty to stay with his mother in her declining years. Ernest, the youngest of the family, is a machinist in Alabama, and like his brothers, is as yet unmarried.

Prior to 1891 Henry W. Archer of R., whose father's mother was a daughter of John Stump of "Stafford," in Harford County, assisted by Albert P. Silver, compiled a genealogical record of the Stump family in Maryland, using much time, labor and patience. In 1891, after the death of Henry W. Archer of R., the manuscript came into my possession and I prepared it for the printer, so that numerous copies would tend to preserve the record. This chart is as to facts prior to 1891 taken therefrom and then brought down to date, intending to give an easy view of the ancestors of those now living who bear the Stump name. The blocks do not pretend to contain the names of all the children of any parents but those generally who left or have descendants bearing the Stump name. The John Stump who patented "Rich Hill," now known as "Richmond Hill," in 1794, in Cecil County, was the second John—John Stump (John Stump).
